passenger train had narrowly escaped a railroad horror. Just a few feet ahead was a wrecked and ruined freight train blockading the track. The conductor and everybody else on the freight train had been injured and were so badly hurt their limbs. The conductor's injuries were less serious and painful than the others'. He knew the passenger train was nearly due at the locality. He struggled forward up the track for some distance. He could not carry a light, but carried some signal torpedoes with him which he placed on the track. He had not gone far up the track before the passenger train came rushing along. It ran over the torpedoes exploding them, and their reports, together with the frantic screams of the conductor, caused the engineer to stop-stop just in time to save the lives of the hundreds of passengers on the train.

THE BRYAN MURBER.

An Interesting Question Delays the Proceedings -- Coroner Knight Takes Charge of the Investigation.

The coroner's jury in the Bryan murder case adjourned from last Tuesday evening till yesterday morning, at which time the investigation was to have been resumed at 10 o'clock. But a very in-Big umbrellas and large perspiration | teresting question arose which caused a hitch of two or three hours in the proceedings.

A rumor got afloat that the county commissioners would refuse to pay the costs of the investigation under the circumstances, and all the jury, witnesses and officers were in a flutter. Special Coroner Beasly intimated that he had no idea of continuing the investigation and taking up the time of the jury and witnesses unless they were to have a proper compensation, and it he said that unless the matter were settled and settled quickly in their favor, he would adjourn the whole business. Strange to say, the State law makes no provision for the appointment of a special coroner by any State or county official. The state constitution provides that the clerk of the Superior court may meeting of the magistrates of Wake appoint a coroner in case of vacancy of office, but makes no provision for the appointment of a SPECIAL coroner in the absence of the coroner. Officer Beasley had been deputized by the clerk of Wake county court to conduct the investigation, the appointment being made under the constitutional clause; but it got out that this appointment was not proper and would be "no good," inasmuch as the office of coroner was held by Dr. J. B. Knight, and that he was easily accessible.

There was some aggravating and desultory discussion over the question for an hour or more, which culminated in the sending of a special messenger for Coroner Knight. The coroner arrived about twelve o'clock and the investigation was resumed.

Since the adjournment of the investigation last Tuesday, a great interest in the case has sprang up. It is a "puzzler" and people have been indulging in speculation as to the probable result of the examination. There was a large crowd in the court room all day yesterday.

The inquest was to have begun at ten o'clock, but it was much later before work was commenced. The evidence of the former sessions

Afternoon Session.

It was expected that the examination would be promptly resumed at 3 30 o'clock, but there was another hitch. Some witnesses were absent, and it was five o'clock before a thing was done. But the witnesses and jury felt pretty solid at this time. There was every reason to believe their pay would be forthcoming, and they were quiet and calm as the time wearily dragged along. There had been two whole days in which to summon witnesses and get everything ready to close the matter up, but apparently nothing had been done in that

When five o'clock did come the only thing done was to declare the investigation adjourned till next Monday morning at ten o'clock.

THE WORLD'S COMMERCE.

New York, May 23 .- Messrs. Hubbard, Price & Co. in their cotton circular to-night say : The Liverpool market opened this morning at an advance of 1 to 2 points, the tone being called firm on the near positions, quiet on the distant. Tenders 20,000 bales; sales 8,000 bales. The spot market was called firm and firmer. The market closed quiet without a substantial change from this morning's figures and will not reopen until Wednesday. The Manchester report was: "Yarns full prices in feet, is from one to three feet thick, silver but business small. Cloths small and is yielding an average of $20 worth

This market, in response to Liverpool, improved some 3a4 points at the opening, August selling at 12.37, but the highest prices of the day were those made on the first call, and from them the market quietly but steadily declined until 12.29 for August was reached. From this there was a slight reaction. Receipts at our ports to-day estimated at 1,000 bales, against 722 bales last week. The spot market is dull and easy at former quotations; middling uplands 12% cents. Sales 131 bales.

Transactions in futures 63,000 bales. Futures closed weak and 2 to 5 points lower, as follows:

GOLD MINING.

Some Encouraging Developments in the Mann-Arrington Mine.

Mr. E. W. Lyon, of the Mann-Arrington Gold Mining company, whose mine is located in Nash county, says that the mine is developing in a most encouraging manner. One thing which has been proven is that deep mining is successful in the eastern district. This has heretofore been a matter of dcubt.

A vein has just been struck at a depth of 160 feet, and has been worked to a level of 400 feet. The same vein has been located for three thousand of gold to the ton right along It is in anticipation by the company to consolidate some of its lands amounting to several thousand acres, and go into the business of raising fine tobacco. If this scheme shall be undertaken, it will be conducted on an immense scale, and the greatest possibilities of the tobacco yielding qualities of that section will be brought out.
